ARMISTICE TO BE CONGRESS MEETS SIGNED TOMORROW

Undergo Much Change in Last Four Days.

Both Sides Will Welcome End of Hostilities on Any Honorable Basis-Austria-Servian Embroglio Still a Source of Worry.

Constantinople, Dec. 2.-The armisice will be signed tomorrow. It was to have been signed yesterday, but this final step was postponed at the last moment, owing to the non-arrival of the official sanction from Athens, Belgrade and Cettinje. The formal sanction is on its way from these capitals and will arrive today.

The Bulgarian peace conditions have undergone considerable modification during the last four days. On the best authority it is stated that the Balkan alliance and Turkey will most likely agree upon the following terms:

Terms of Peace Compact. The Bulgarian frontier to be thrown forward about ten miles to the north of the vilayet of Adrianople, leaving Adrianople and Kirk-Kilisseh, the fortifications of which are to be demolished, well within Turkish territory. The frontier line will then follow roughly the Maritze valley.

In return for Adrianople and Kirk-Kilisseh, Bulgaria receives Kavala and Dedeagatch, with a new western frontier running from a little beyond Kavala northeast to Bulgaria's present

Turkey also agrees to the autonomy of Macedonia and a large section of Servians to Retain Uskub. The Servians will retain their ancient capital-Uskub. The Ottoman government has no obfection to ceding to Servia a strip of he Adriatic littoral adjacent to the Montenegrin coast. The Greek frontier will be extended

The decision in regard to the enargement of Montenegro and the quesion of the Sanjak and Salonika have not been much discussed. It is probable, however, that the latter will be annexed to Greece.

Montenegro, in addition to Scutari and a tract adjoining the southeast frontier, will be offered a large portion of the Sanjak, the Servian frontier being moved forward a little to meet Montenegro.

Outlook for Peace Bright. London, Dec. 2.-While the announcement of the postponement of the signing of the two weeks' armistice at Constantinople comes as a surprise, it is generally believed that the outlook for peace is still bright.

Despite the tenacity with which the Turkish representatives at Eagtche have insisted on the retention of Scutari and Adrianople as Turkish territory, there can be but little doubt that both sides will welcome a cessation of hostilities on any honorable basis. Both have felt the strain severely. Servia finds herself forced to call out all reserves to guard the capital against a possible attack by Austria. Dean Sumner Goes Under Knife. Chicago, Dec. 2.—Dean Walter T. Sumner of the Cathedral of SS. Peter and Paul, underwent an operation for appendicitis. The operation was performed by Dr. John B. Murphy.

Aged Man in Auto Killed by Train. Bloomington, Dec. 2.—While driving over the Chicago & Alton tracks in an automobile at Chatham, Benjamin Fletcher, seventy years old, was struck by a train and killed.

Kills Self While Hunting. Decatur, Dec. 2.—Harold Gillispee, seventeen, accidentally shot and killed himself while hunting near here. The gun was discharged while climbing into a fallen tree.

FOR ROUTINE WORK

Wholly of Appropriation Measures.

OUTLINE OF POSSIBLE TERMS TWO BILLS READY FOR ACTION

Impeachment of Judge Archbald Will Be of Interest in Senate Operations-Committees of Both Houses Will Mark Time.

Washington, Dec. 2 .- Facing a program made up almost wholly of approbation bills, the Sixty-second congress convened today for the short session that will wind up its career. These budget bills number more than a dozen and will carry appropriations footing up somewhat more than $1,000,000,000. Their passage is necessary to the conduct of the government and little else will be attempted by senate or house.

Congress will take a recess in about two weeks for the Christmas holidays and soon after New Year's day it will assemble again and remain at work until Wilson and Marshall are inaugurated on March 4.

Two Bills Ready for Action. Two of the annual budgets are now ready-the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill and the District of Columbia bill. These, possibly, will be passed by the house and sent over to the senate before the Christmas adjournment. The naval, military, post office, Indian, fortifications, diplomatic, pensions and minor budgets must be passed in January and February.

It is apparent to experienced mem bers that such big questions as the tariff, the trusts and the currency problem cannot be tackled in the days intervening between December 2 and March 4. Congress will be forced to appropriate at the rate of about $12,500,000 per day in order to meet the running expenses of the United States government during the fiscal year of 1913. This immense task practically precludes all hope of general legislation and unusually fast work will be required to dispose of the appropriation measures on the eve of the incoming administration.

On the other hand the Democrats of the house, cognizant of the fact that their party will control the entire governmental machinery after President Wilson is inducted into office. are loath to undertake general legislation during the short session, even if the opportunity were offered. The Democrats figure that it is useless to consider legislation which might meet a stumbling block in a dying Republican senate or at the White

What the Committees Will Do. It is anticipated that the house committee on banking and currency will continue its investigation of the "money trust" and may make a tentative draft of bills to am rency laws. It is not expected, however, that any effort will be made to enact these into laws during the short session, and the committee, in effect, will mark time until the change of administrations.

The ways and means committee will plug ahead in its preparation of bills revising the Payne-Aldrich tariff law, but none of these measures will be brought out until the beginning of the Sixty-third congress, which will be convened in extraordinary session about April 15.

The judiciary committee of the house will be largely concerned with the impeachment proceedings against Judge Robert W. Archbald of the commerce court, which are now pending before the senate and will be taken up very soon. This will prohibit the immediate consideration by the committee of the trust question. Amendments to the Sherman law probably will await the convening of the new congress, although sporadic hearings may be held by the judiciary committe during the lulls in the Archbald impeachment trial.

The Archbald trial probably will engage the attention of the senate for zeveral weeks, and this, together with the annual appropriation bills, will fully occupy the time and attention of the upper chamber until March 4. The prospects are that most of the committees of the house and senate will mark time during the months of December, January and February and that no important legislative matters, other than the supply bills, will be seriously considered.

NERVO-SEXUALDEBILITY Men, many of your are now reaping the result of your former folly. Your manhood is failing and will soon be lost unless you do something rself. There is no time to lose. RESEMBLE THE ANIMAL

PECULIARITY NOTED IN SOME HUMAN COUNTENANCES.

This Facial "Defect," Among Them the Great Scientist Charles Darwin.

The likeness of certain human types to familiar animals is a matter of common observation. Caricaturists, from the days of the Greek and Romans down, have made use of its suggestions. A noteworthy instance in comparatively recent years was that of aquiline countenance was readily converted into a bird of prey-the French eagle sometimes, at other times, and even more strikingly, a vulture preying upon France.

In our daily speech we naturally describe men as rat-faced, hoggish or 12's dear of them." foxy in appearance, or say of a noblelooking old man that he possesses a Iconine head. Still other persons we pronounce simian in their physiognomy, and although few of us would care to merit a personal application of that adjective, it need not be so uncomplimentary as one would imagine.

The dignified and venerable Charles Darwin accepted it as applied to himself with no resentment, and with a gently humorous perception of its pat coincidence with his favorite theories; while the resemblance of Oom Paul Kruger to an ancient and exceedingly sagacious gorilla was more than once

An amusing discovery of unhuman likeness was related by a friend of Sir Henry M. Stanley. When Stanley visited the Karaguas, an African tribe rather above the average in intelligence, he had with him a fine bulldog, whose puggy and pugnacious countenance possessed all the unlovely characteristics of the breed.

The Karaguas bestowed much attention upon this beast, and their chief, before parting with the white men, ingenuously pointed out an odd fact which he had observed. The Karagua men, flat-faced, snub-nosed and thick-lipped, looked, he thought, much like the English dog; while the half-wild Karagua dogs, clean-cut, keen-eyed and long-nosed, looked, you're just like the rest of us." much more than their masters did. like the Englishmen.

Whether Stanley, who had right to think well of his own personal appearance, relished this comparison or not, he could not do otherwise than take it in good part; and he had sense of humor enough to pass it on for the amusement of others after he got home.

ENORMOUS WASTE OF COAL

One Reason Why the Use of Oil as Fuel Would Be of High Economic Importance.

The United States is by all means the greatest coal producing country in the world. In 1850 the production of coal in the country amounted to 6,266,233 tons. Thirty years later it had risen to almost 64,000,000 tons. In another twenty years this industry had grown to over 240,000,000 tons. Ten years more passed and the production of coal in the United States by the census of 1910 was over 400,-000,000 tons. For the year just past it is estimated at about 500,000,000 tons. Signs of Age.

There are various ways of telling when a man is getting old. One of the surest ways by which he may know it himself is to find that young Ryan to Take Stand After women address him as "sir." One 'Yes, sir," will age a man by an indeterminate sentence of anywhere form one to five years. Then there is the mustache, which, if allowed to get out into the open, instead of being closely shaved, will show the sere and yellow, or rather gray. (This is not to be spelled "grey," but "gray.") Then, again, there are the wrinkles which add themselves one to another in the forehead, but there is one sure way of telling of advancing years, which beats all of the others, as it never fails. When a man is seated between another man and a pretty girl and another passenger enters the car, if the man moves in order to make room for the newcomer and moves towards the man in the seat. thus allowing the new arrival to come between him and the pretty girl, instead of moving closer to her himself. he is really, truly getting old. And nobody will notice his advancing age any more quickly than the pretty girl.

AZTEC BALL PLAYERS

HAD GAME REQUIRING HIGH DEGREE OF SKILL

Stars of the First Magnitude in the Big Leagues Today Would Have Found Nothing Easy About Those Contests.

No, the first game of ball ever played on the American continent did not take place the first time the home team walloped the visiting "ginks" way back in the last century. That "game" seems to have been played several centuries ago. It was an Aztec game and it was played somewhere out on the mesas of Mexico, long before the Spaniards arrived in their search for gild. The sort of ball that the Aztecs played was very popular with the public, just as the big league draws attention today. They had no "regular league balls" at $1.25 each, but used one of rubber or elastic resin, and in another sort of contest used those made of gold.

The ancient Aztec game was called totologue and was played in a court known as a tlacheo, not so large as the present day diamond. The players were clothed only in a maxtlati or girdle around the loins.

There were pitchers, but not catchers, and the fielders were few. When pitched the ball was struck by an upward movement of the thigh or elbow, according to how it was aimed, whether high or low. After being struck the sphere, in order to count, had to pass through a hole in one of several stone disks hanging just in front of the wall of the court. The feat of bunting that ball with the thigh and sending it through one of those holes required a great deal of skill, as might be imagined. Agility was one of the prime requisites of an Aztec big leaguer. Any player touching the ball with the hand lost a point.

The emoluments of the game were quite as interesting from a pecupiary standpoint as they are today. Things of great value were usually given to the winners. And not only the prize. The victors were often presented with jewels, fine cotton stuffs, feather work or plumes of great value.

The game with the gold balls was a favorite of Montezuma. It is said that when Cortez staged his little hostorical skit known as the Conquest of Mexico and took Montezuma prisoner the royal captive spent a great deal of his time in durance playing the game with gold balls. He often challenged the Spanish general to a contest

These yellow "pills" were thrown at targets of the same precious metal. History shows that Montezuma had the makings of a pitcher who might have been in fast company had he delayed the date of his birth a few centuries. He could lean them against the home plate with unerring regular ity. The Spaniards never could learn to play ball any way, and Cortez was not one two three with the first great American pitcher, so he lost fre quently. The Aztec emperor usually insisted upon having high stakes placed on the game and won precious stones, ingots of gold and other more or less desirable property, which he promptly distributed to his attendants with the wonted generosity of his emperorship. Cortez probably played a clever game on "Old Monte" for he was the captor, you know. He probably relieved those same attendants of their evidences of Montezuma's liberality as fast as the old fellow loaded them up, and thus kept up a clever triple monetary play, Montezuma to servants to

Woodrow Wilson is willing to take

Congress Must /Change Date. Many persons have urged the president-elect to sanction a postponement of the inaugural ceremonies without realizing that this cannot be done without an act of congress, and that it is impossible now to change the forthcoming ceremony so far as the taking of the oath is concerned.

Mr. Wilson's statement here, however, indicates his sympathy with the later inauguration movement and implies that he will gladly assent to a delay of the show features of the event if an agreement to this end can be reached.

Plan Liked in Washington. Washington, Dec. 2.-President-

elect Wilson's announcement that he will take the oath of office on March 4 and postpone the inaugural ceremonies until the last Thursday in April is received here with satisfac-

The effect of the announcement will be to cause congress to give earnest consideration to and perhaps to pass the bill amending the constitution so as to fix April as the date of the beginning of a new administration.

Why Later Date Is Desired.

Postponement of the inaugural date s urged mainly to obtain a reasonable certainty that pleasant weather will be assured. Since 1873 there have been only three fine inauguration days. As a result of the unseasonable weather, thousands of paricipants in the inaugural ceremonies have contracted colds and many of them have died of pneumonia. The following table shows the state of the weather on the day of presidential inaugurations during the last forty McCaskrin Freed by Court.

Rock Island, Dec. 2.-Indictments against Harry M. McCaskrin, growing out of the Rock Island riot of March 26, which it is said he caused, were all quashed by Circuit Judge Olmstead. The motion to quash was made by Mr. McCaskrin, who served as his own attorney. He contended that the grand jury which brought the indictments and the officer who selected the jurors were prejudiced. Besides, he urged that a proportionate number of the jurors was not chosen from each township in the county, a majority being found in Rock Island and Moline townships. Mr. McCaskrin discussed the situation after the judge decided the issue.

> Richard Frayne Killed Instantly at Jacksonville, Fla., When He Plunges From Parachute Seat.

> Jacksonville, Fla., Dec. 2.-Richard Frayne, an aeronaut, fell 2,000 feet here Sunday afternoon and was killed instantly. Three thousand peo-was broken. With Jack Crosby, his companion. Frayne ascended at the tri-county fair here. Both men had individual parachutes attached to the balloon.

Crosby severed his parachute from the balloon first. A moment later he saw Frayne's body dash past him.

Witnesses of the tragedy say Frayne's parachute opened successfully, and it is believed his fall was due to his failure to place his hands west of Woosung, Ill. D. M. Fanrney, in the safety wristlets, the momentary halting of descent upon the opening of the parachute hurling him from his

PECULIAR BELIEF IN JAPAN

Scems Strange to Our Western Ideas, Though There is Much That is Pathetic About It.

Among the Buddhists in Japan it is believed that the souls of children go after death to Sul-no-ka-wara (the stony river-bed) and there they re main until they reach maturity under the care of Jizobosatsu, who is represented as a priest with a long cane in one hand and a ball in the other. He is said to stand in the center of the kawara, where he preaches to bull is to be invested in rags, rubthe children as they pile up stones, one for the salvation of their father, one for the mother, the third for brothers, the fourth for sisters and the fifth for their own salvation.

When night comes on and the wind blows hard a gigantic evil spirit appears and with a huge iron rod knocks down the heaps of stones which the children have made, and they are so frightened that they run to Jizo and hide themselves in the big sleeves of his kimono, which have a miraculous way of increasing in size according to the number of children who seek refuge. Then the evil spirit disappears and the children begin again the work of heaping up stones. Passing through cemeteries in Japan one sees tombs that have the image of Jizo carved upon them, as the parents take that way of gaining the special favor of Jizo for their children, and one will see little piles of stones built up by the parents and brothers and sisters of the children with the hope of helping in the tedious work of the little ones in the kawara. -Christian Advocate.

Chicken Race War.

"A sectional issue has arisen in our town," said the commuter. "Before it is settled I am afraid the civil war will be fought all over again. Any how, our southern friends are sure to indulge in some fire-eating language.

"A resident of our village, who undertook to raise chickens, received crate of fowls from a South Carolina farm. When the neighbors learned where the chickens came from they raised a row.

"'If you must get chickens,' they said, 'get northern chickens. They don't crow nearly so much as southern chickens. There is something in the climate down there that makes a chicken crow four times as often as a chicken brought up in any other part of the country.'

That peculiarity of southern chickens was news to the amateur poultry. man. He noticed, however, that his chickens really did crow more persistently and more vigorously than any other chickens he ever had known, chickens instead. Now he is in hot water with the southern families in our town, and heaven only knows New York Times.
